Thomas Connolly, MD

As a general orthopaedic surgeon, Dr. Connolly treats a range of musculoskeletal issues including degenerative conditions of the bones and joints as well as serious musculoskeletal injuries.

He attended University of Pittsburgh Pharmacy School and is a registered pharmacist. Dr. Connolly earned his medical degree and completed his residency at Drexel University School of Medicine in Philadelphia. He is certified by the American Board of Orthopaedic Surgery.

Outside work, Dr. Connolly enjoys weightlifting and holds a fifth-degree black belt in judo. He was a team physician for the U.S. judo team at the Pan American Championships, as well as a team physician and competitor at the CISM Games in Rome, Italy.

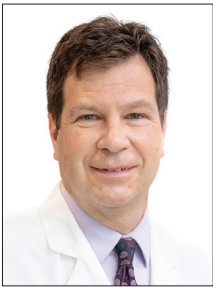

Brian Jacobs, DO

A sports medicine specialist, Dr. Jacobs helps athletes and non-athletes alike recover from injury, prevent further injuries and improve athletic performance and everyday activity levels. He is a team physician for Bucknell University, Bloomsburg University and numerous area high schools. He coaches the Celtic Soccer Club and State College Youth Ice Hockey.

Dr. Jacobs earned his medical degree from the Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine. He completed his residency at the Mayo Clinic in Minnesota and his fellowship at Geisinger Medical Center. Dr. Jacobs is certified by the American Board of Family Medicine. He is also certified in orthopaedic ultrasound.

William Schlorff, DPM

When Dr. Schlorff joined Geisinger in 2020, he was already well-known by many, as he'd been practicing podiatry in the area for more than 30 years.

He received his medical training in Philadelphia and holds a Doctorate of Podiatric Medicine from Temple University. He completed his residency at Frankford Hospital and is certified by the American Board of Podiatric Surgery.

When not at work, Dr. Schlorff enjoys fishing, hiking, trail running, mountain biking, traveling and painting.
