

Health coaching

Geisinger

Whether a person is hoping to improve their health by trying to be more active, aiming for better nutrition or just looking to take steps toward a healthier lifestyle – our health coaches can provide support.

One-on-one telephone coaching is tailored to each participant's unique health needs to help build healthy habits that transform into lasting lifestyle changes. Coaches provide accountability, promote personal responsibility and encourage self-discovery, all while celebrating milestones and successes along the way.

Health coaching overview:

- Person-centered: Evidence-based coaching strategies are tailored to each participant's specific needs and unique circumstances.
- Self-efficacy: Coaches use techniques to help encourage the participants' belief in their ability to accomplish a task by discussing strengths, values and assumptions. The coaches encourage a plan for barriers and celebrate successes.
- Participant-determined goals: In partnership with their coach, participants choose their own action plan to activate behavior change no matter where they are on their health journey.

Health coaching topics:

Health coaching creates a foundation for building sustainable, healthy habits that can positively impact:

- Cholesterol
- Hypertension
- Diabetes/prediabetes
- Tobacco cessation
- Healthy weight
- Mindfulness
- Stress management
- Sleep habits

Let us help!
